

Profile of Mr. Sanjay Singh

Mr. Sanjay Singh is a dedicated social development professional and civil society leader, currently serving as the Secretary of Parmarth Samaj Sevi Sansthan, Jhansi. He is widely recognized for his long-standing commitment to grassroots development, social justice, and community empowerment, particularly in the socio-economically challenged regions of Bundelkhand. Through his leadership and active engagement with communities, Mr. Singh has contributed significantly to improving livelihoods, strengthening local institutions, and promoting inclusive and sustainable development. With extensive experience in the voluntary and development sector, Mr. Sanjay Singh has developed a deep understanding of rural realities, governance challenges, and the needs of marginalized populations. His work reflects a people-centered approach that emphasizes participation, equity, and dignity. Over the years, he has been actively involved in designing and implementing development interventions that address poverty, social exclusion, and environmental stress, while strengthening community resilience and self-reliance. As Secretary of Parmarth Samaj Sevi Sansthan, Mr. Singh plays a key role in strategic planning, program coordination, and organizational management. Parmarth Samaj Sevi Sansthan is a well-established civil society organization working in Bundelkhand on issues such as rural livelihoods, water security, agriculture, women's empowerment, education, health, and natural resource management. Under his stewardship, the organization has expanded its outreach and strengthened its impact through community-based and rights-oriented approaches.

A major focus of Mr. Singh's work has been on livelihood enhancement and sustainable agriculture in drought-prone areas. He has supported initiatives related to water conservation, watershed development, promotion of climate-resilient farming practices, and diversification of rural livelihoods. By encouraging the adoption of appropriate technologies and traditional knowledge systems, he has helped farming communities improve productivity, reduce vulnerability, and enhance income security.

Mr. Sanjay Singh has also been deeply engaged in strengthening local governance and community institutions. He has worked closely with Panchayati Raj Institutions, self-help groups, farmer collectives, and youth groups to enhance participatory planning, transparency, and accountability. His efforts have contributed to improved community ownership of development programs and more effective delivery of government schemes and services at the grassroots level. Social inclusion and empowerment of marginalized groups form a central pillar of Mr. Singh's professional work. He has actively supported initiatives aimed at empowering women, small and marginal farmers, landless households, and socially disadvantaged communities. Through capacity-building programs, leadership training, and awareness campaigns, he has helped strengthen voices of marginalized groups and promote equitable access to resources, opportunities, and entitlements.

In addition to field-based work, Mr. Singh has been involved in advocacy and policy engagement at district and state levels. He has collaborated with government departments, research institutions, and other civil society organizations to promote evidence-based policies and development strategies relevant to the Bundelkhand region. His insights, grounded in field experience, have contributed to policy discussions on rural development, water management, agriculture, and social welfare. Mr. Sanjay Singh has also contributed to documentation, reporting, and knowledge-sharing related to grassroots development practices. He has supported the preparation of project reports, case studies, and learning notes that highlight successful community-led initiatives and lessons from field implementation. These efforts have helped disseminate best practices and inform future program design. As a mentor and facilitator, Mr. Singh has guided field staff, community volunteers, and young development professionals, fostering a culture of learning, accountability, and ethical practice within the organization. His leadership style emphasizes collaboration, transparency, and long-term sustainability, ensuring that development interventions remain responsive to community needs and priorities.

Overall, Mr. Sanjay Singh stands out as a committed social sector professional whose work has made a meaningful impact on the lives of rural and marginalized communities in Bundelkhand. As Secretary of Parmarth Samaj Sevi Sansthan, Jhansi, he continues to play a vital role in advancing inclusive development, strengthening community institutions, and promoting sustainable and people-centered solutions to regional development challenges.